1. The increasing reliance on technology in daily life and the job market makes coding a valuable skill for students, preparing them for future careers in technology, engineering, and business.
隨著日常生活和職場對科技的依賴日益加深，編程成為一項寶貴的技能，有助於學生為未來的科技、工程和商業職業做好準備。
2. Learning coding enhances problem-solving skills, logical thinking, and creativity, which are beneficial across multiple academic disciplines.
學習編程能夠提高解決問題的能力、邏輯思維以及創造力，這些能力對於多個學術領域都有幫助。
3. Introducing coding as a compulsory subject ensures equal access to digital literacy, bridging the gap between students from different socio-economic backgrounds.
將編程列為必修課可以確保所有學生都有平等的機會獲取數碼素養，縮小來自不同社經背景學生之間的差距。
4. However, making coding mandatory may put additional pressure on students, especially those who struggle with logical reasoning or prefer non-STEM subjects.
然而，強制學習編程可能會給學生帶來額外壓力，特別是那些在邏輯推理方面有困難，或是更喜歡非 STEM 學科的學生。
5. Schools may face challenges such as a shortage of qualified teachers, lack of resources, and varying levels of students' prior knowledge in technology.
學校可能會面臨一些挑戰，例如合資格的教師短缺、資源不足，以及學生對科技的基礎知識水平參差不齊。
6. Instead of making coding compulsory, schools could offer flexible learning options such as elective coding courses, extracurricular clubs, or partnerships with tech companies for hands-on learning experiences.
與其將編程設為必修課，學校可以提供靈活的學習選擇，如選修編程課程、課外活動編程俱樂部，或與科技公司合作提供實踐學習機會。

Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

Introduction

- In today's digital era, technology is reshaping the way we learn, work, and communicate.
- Many argue that coding should be a fundamental skill, just like reading and mathematics.
- This article will explore both the benefits and challenges of making coding a compulsory subject, as well as possible alternatives.

Body Paragraphs (Developing Arguments & Counterarguments)

- One major advantage of compulsory coding education is that it prepares students for future careers in a technology-driven economy. (Introducing key argument)
- Moreover, coding enhances students' problem-solving skills, logical reasoning, and creativity, making them more adaptable to various academic disciplines. (Adding supporting detail)
- However, critics argue that not all students are inclined toward STEM subjects, and forcing them to learn coding could be counterproductive. (Introducing counterargument)
- Another major challenge is the shortage of qualified teachers and resources, which could lead to ineffective teaching. (Providing additional concerns)
- A more balanced approach would be to integrate coding as an elective subject or an extracurricular activity. (Suggesting alternative solutions)

Conclusion

- To strike a balance, schools should provide flexible options for coding education while ensuring equal opportunities for students to learn digital skills.
- Ultimately, while coding is undeniably important, a more personalized approach may yield better learning outcomes.
- By offering a variety of pathways, schools can accommodate students' different interests and capabilities.

Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

Introduction

- Dear Editor,
- With the rise of artificial intelligence (AI) in education, many wonder whether it truly benefits students.
- While some believe AI enhances learning, others fear it may weaken essential skills.
- This letter will explore both perspectives and suggest a balanced approach to integrating AI in education.

Body Paragraphs (Developing Arguments & Counterarguments)

- First and foremost, AI provides personalized learning experiences, which traditional teaching cannot always achieve.
- Additionally, AI tools offer 24/7 access to learning resources, helping students who struggle in specific subjects.
- However, relying solely on AI may weaken students' ability to think critically and solve problems independently.
- Moreover, AI lacks emotional intelligence, meaning it cannot replace the human motivation and encouragement that teachers provide.
- Another major concern is data privacy, as AI platforms collect large amounts of student information, posing cybersecurity risks.
- Rather than replacing teachers, AI should complement traditional teaching methods to achieve a balance between technology and human interaction.

Conclusion

- To conclude, AI offers undeniable benefits in education, but it should not replace traditional teaching.
- A balanced approach, where AI serves as a supporting tool rather than a substitute for teachers, is the best way forward.
- By ensuring responsible use, we can maximize AI's potential while preserving essential human elements in learning.

Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

Introduction

- Good morning, teachers and fellow students. Today, I want to talk about an issue that affects many of us—teen stress and self-harm.
- We often hear about students struggling with stress, but how often do we take action to help?
- This speech will explore the causes of teen stress, its consequences, and practical ways to prevent self-harm.

Body Paragraphs (Logical Flow of Ideas)

- First, let's examine the root causes of stress among teenagers.
- One major factor is academic pressure, as students feel immense pressure to perform well in exams.
- Additionally, family expectations can be overwhelming, making students feel like failures if they do not meet their parents' standards.
- Social media also plays a role, as teenagers compare themselves to unrealistic standards set by influencers and peers.
- As a result, some students turn to self-harm as a coping mechanism.
- However, this is not a real solution—it only provides temporary relief while causing long-term damage.
- To address this issue, schools must offer counseling services and peer support programs.
- Moreover, parents and teachers must create an open environment where students feel safe discussing their struggles.
- Encouraging healthy coping mechanisms, such as exercise, creative hobbies, and mindfulness, can also help students manage stress.

Conclusion

- In conclusion, teen stress and self-harm are serious issues that demand immediate attention.
- By working together, we can create a supportive community where students feel safe and valued.
- Let's take action now to ensure that every student receives the emotional support they need.

Introduction

- Good morning, adjudicators, teachers, and fellow students. Today, we are debating a crucial issue—should young people take a more active role in politics?
- Politics affects every aspect of our lives, from education to job opportunities. If we remain silent, we risk letting others decide our future.
- I strongly support the motion that young people should actively participate in politics, and in my speech, I will explain why.

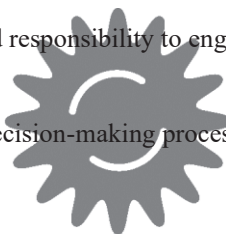

Body Paragraphs (Developing Arguments & Counterarguments)

- To begin with, young people are the future of society, so it is essential that they have a say in decisions that will affect them.
- Moreover, political engagement helps young people develop important skills such as critical thinking and leadership.
- In recent years, youth-led movements have demonstrated how young people can drive meaningful change.
- However, some argue that young people lack experience and may be easily manipulated by political groups or social media.
- While this may be true to some extent, it does not mean young people should be excluded from politics. Instead, we should ensure they receive proper political education.
- A practical solution would be to involve young people in advisory roles where they can gain experience before taking on larger responsibilities.

Title and Introduction

- Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Report on Online and Phone Scams Targeting Teenagers
- Submitted by: [Your Name], Social Service Club
- Date:
- Introduction:
 - With the rise of digital technology, online and phone scams have become a growing threat to teenagers.
 - A recent survey conducted by our school's social service club has revealed alarming statistics regarding student vulnerability to scams.
 - This report aims to summarize the findings, analyze the reasons behind student susceptibility, and propose solutions to prevent future incidents.

Findings and Analysis

- Survey Findings:
 - According to our survey, 60% of students have encountered scams, with social media scams and fake shopping websites being the most common.
 - Nearly 40% of respondents admitted that they or their friends had lost money due to online fraud.

Reasons for Student Vulnerability:

Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

- One key reason students fall for scams is their lack of awareness regarding online security.
- Many scams use persuasive tactics, such as urgent time-limited offers or impersonation of trusted organizations.
- Teenagers are often overly trusting, especially when deals seem too good to be true.

Recommendations and Solutions

- To combat this issue, the school should launch cybersecurity workshops and awareness campaigns to educate students.
- Collaboration with law enforcement and tech experts can help students learn real-life scam prevention techniques.
- Parents should play a more active role in guiding their children on safe online practices.

Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

Introduction

- Dear Editor,
- I am writing to express my deep concern about the alarming rise in drug abuse among young people and the increasing adoption of the “lying flat” mentality.
- This trend is troubling, as it reflects a sense of hopelessness and disengagement from society among today’s youth.
- In this letter, I will explore the reasons behind these issues and suggest practical measures to address them.

Body Paragraphs (Developing Arguments & Counterarguments)

- First and foremost, many teenagers feel overwhelmed by academic pressure and societal expectations, leading them to disengage rather than strive for success.
- Moreover, the lack of career prospects and rising living costs have contributed to a sense of helplessness, making the “lying flat” lifestyle appealing.
- Some young people turn to drug abuse as a means of escaping reality, unaware of the long-term consequences.
- However, rather than blaming youth for this trend, we must focus on solutions.
- Schools should provide career guidance, stress management programs, and mental health support to help students cope with challenges.

Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

- Additionally, governments and businesses must create more job opportunities and career paths for young people to regain motivation.

Conclusion

- In conclusion, the rise in drug abuse and the “lying flat” mentality among youth is a pressing issue that requires immediate attention.
- We must foster an environment where young people feel hopeful about their futures rather than resorting to harmful coping mechanisms.
- Only through education, mental health support, and career opportunities can we help young people find purpose and success in life.

Organization (Extended Linking Words and Expressions for Coherence in an Article)

Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

Introduction

- In recent years, a major shift has occurred in the job market—many young people are reluctant to return to full-time work.
- Unlike previous generations who sought job security and long-term employment, today's youth value flexibility and work-life balance.
- This article explores the reasons behind this trend and suggests possible solutions for employers to attract young talent.

Body Paragraphs (Developing Arguments & Counterarguments)

- One of the key reasons young professionals avoid full-time jobs is the appeal of flexibility.
 - Many prefer gig work or freelancing, which allows them to set their own schedules.
- Moreover, traditional full-time jobs often come with long working hours and relatively low pay, making them unattractive.
 - For instance, many entry-level jobs offer salaries that barely cover living expenses in major cities.
- Another factor is the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, which normalized remote work and highlighted the possibility of alternative work arrangements.
 - Many employees now expect the option to work remotely rather than spending hours commuting.

Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14 Glory to God in the highest, and on the earth peace among men with whom he is well pleased. Luke:2:14

- However, full-time jobs still offer certain advantages, such as job security, stable income, and employee benefits.
 - Freelancers may struggle with inconsistent income and lack of job stability, making full-time work appealing in some cases.
- A potential solution is for employers to adapt to modern work expectations.
 - By offering hybrid work models and better salaries, companies can create a more attractive working environment for young employees.

Conclusion

- In conclusion, the reluctance of young people to return to full-time work is driven by their preference for flexibility, dissatisfaction with wages, and the evolving work culture.
