Subject: Exciting job opportunity with top robotics company

Dear Ms Chen,

I am ^{9.1 (TS, DF6)} writing to you on behalf of our client, Tech Future Incorporated. TFI is ^{9.2 (DF6)} Hong Kong's most successful robotics start-up, and I am extremely pleased to inform you ⁵ that they are interested in hiring you as a ^{9.3 (TS)} product developer.

If you were to take them up on this offer, not only would you enjoy a ^{9.4 (DF10)} highly competitive salary and benefits package, but you ^{9.5 (DF6)} would also play an important role in inventing the future together with TFI.

One reason TFI wants you to join them is the fact that you passed your ^{9.6 (DF8, DF10)} Master of Science in Mechanical Engineering ^{9.7 (DF6)} with distinction. More importantly, however, they feel you are the perfect candidate for this position because of your non-academic achievements, such as ^{9.8 (DF8, DF10)} winning Best Invention in the Field of Automation at the International Under-20 ¹⁵ Engineering Expo in Singapore, and ^{9.9 (DF8, DF10)} winning the Asian Robot Combat Championships four years in a row.

To learn more about this exciting opportunity, would you be able to come in for an ^{9.10 (TS)} interview on Friday 6 December, at 2 p.m.?

I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours sincerely,

Ali Wang

Dear Editor,

^{10.1 (TS, DF9)} In reference to 'Don't give recruitment agencies your money' (Alfred Choi, 26 November), I am writing to set a few things straight regarding this important industry.

First, Mr Choi made the unfounded claim that it is a ^{10.2 (TS)} waste of money for companies to employ the services of a recruitment agency as part of their hiring process. Yes, hiring a recruitment agency costs money, that is true. However, it also ^{10.3 (DF3)} saves time, and as we all know, time is money. Recruitment agencies ^{10.4 (DF3)} have vast talent databases and networks that they can make use of, allowing them to find suitable candidates for specific positions almost immediately. In addition, they ^{10.5 (DF3)} will also handle all the administration work associated with the hiring process, saving their clients even more time.

Second, Mr Choi stated that using a recruitment agency will ^{10.6 (TS)} result in poor-quality candidates. This is certainly not the case for the clients of Person Power Ltd. ^{10.7 (DF7)} Every single candidate we recommend is pre-screened and uniquely suited for the position our clients need filled. Furthermore, on the rare occasion that a hire does not work out, we offer a ^{10.8 (DF7)} guarantee. If the employee resigns or is dismissed within 90 days, we will find a replacement entirely free of charge.

The truth of the matter is that recruitment agencies can provide an invaluable service to their clients. After all, ^{10.9 (DF9)} why would companies use them if they thought they could do a better job themselves?

Yours faithfully,

Ali Wang
